- - A system and method for organizing images obtained from at least one image retaining device having a unique identification. The system includes a computer having a database for storing digital images and a management section for managing customer orders and stored digital images. The management section is capable of receiving and storing a unique identification of at least one image retaining device and registering the image retaining device to a customer account. After reaching a predetermined period of time or number of images obtained from image sources, the system automatically provides a product and/or service to a recipient designated by the customer incorporating the plurality of customer provided images.- -

Reasons for Allowability

The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

The field of the invention pertains to image capture and storage, and in particular to a system and method for providing a product and/or service to a customer based on customer provided images.

Claims 1 and 77: no prior art of record neither discloses nor teaches a method of automatically providing a product and/or service to a customer using images submitted by the customer during a predetermined period of time that is established prior to the customer submitting the images. After reaching the predetermined period of time, the customer provided images that are accumulated during the predetermined time period are used to create the customer's product for a recipient or used in providing a service for a recipient designated by the customer.

Claims 79 and 80: no prior art of record neither discloses nor teaches a method of automatically providing a product and/or service to a recipient designated by a customer using a predetermined criteria that is established prior to the customer submitting the images for processing. After reaching the predetermined criteria of the number of images (from at least two from two or more image sources), the customer provided images are used to create the customer's product for a recipient or are used in providing a service for a recipient designated by the customer.

The closest prior art PhotoNet does not teach or suggest predetermined criteria that is established prior to a customer submitting images to a service provider, whereby after reaching the predetermined criteria (time period or plurality of digital images from two or more sources) automatically providing a product to a recipient or providing a service to a recipient designated by the customer that uses a customer's supplied images.

Neither PhotoNet nor prior art cited in combination with PhotoNet disclose, teach or suggest the claimed invention.

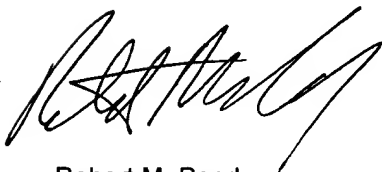

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
